There are many Belgian universities, like Katholieke Universiteit Leuven (KU Leuven) and ULB. When repeating their names, they won't show as a long version: KU Leuven, ULB. But we can still force them to be long using the `gls` function: Katholieke Universiteit Leuven (KU Leuven).

We can also force them to be short: KU Leuven. Finally, we can make them plural:

1. using the `suffix` parameter: KU Leuvens, or
2. using the additional `supplement` onto the `ref`: KU Leuven, or
3. the plural function `#glspl(key: "kuleuven")` KU Leuvens, or
4. call `@kuleuven:pl` KU Leuvens

It is also possible to use the proper article with `#agls("lod")`: "a level of details (LOD) system", "an LOD system".

You can also override the text shown by setting the `display` argument: whatever you want

Attributes of an entry can be retrieved using the available functions:

- `gls-key("kuleuven")`: kuleuven
- `gls-short("kuleuven")`: KU Leuven
- `gls-artshort("kuleuven")`: the
- `gls-plural("kuleuven")`: KU Leuvens
- `gls-long("kuleuven")`: Katholieke Universiteit Leuven
- `gls-artlong("kuleuven")`: the
- `gls-longplural("kuleuven")`: Katholieke Universiteiten Leuven
- `gls-description("kuleuven")`: Fugiat do fugiat est minim ullamco est eu duis minim nisi tempor adipisicing do sunt. Vrije Universiteit Brussel (VUB)
- `gls-group("kuleuven")`:

Numbering is, of course, correct when referencing the glossary: KU Leuven, ULB, Universiteit Gent (UGent), VUB, ULB, Université de Mons (UMons), Université de Liège (ULiège), Université de Namur (UNamur). They are also sorted based on where the page is in the document and not the textual representation.

Additionally, you can load data externally and pass it as a parameter to the `glossary.with` function to load data from an external format.
